DANGERS OF A COLD

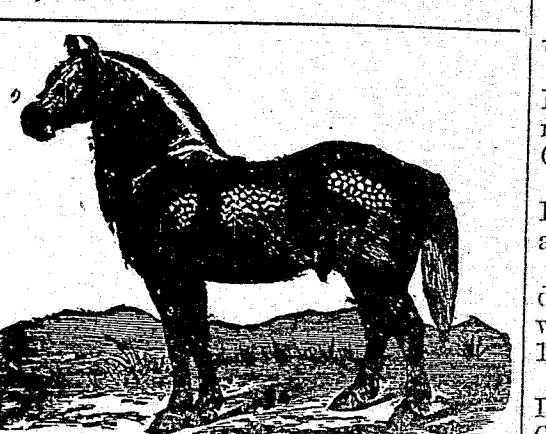

Norway People Will Do Well to Heed Them.

Many bad cases of kidney trouble result from a cold or chill. Congested kidneys fall behind in filtering the poison-laden blood and backache, headache, dizziness and disordered kidney action follow. Don't neglect a cold. Use Doan's Kidney Pills at the first sign of kidney trouble. Follow this Norway resident's example:

Wm. O. Needham, retired farmer, Main St., says: "At different times when I have taken cold, my kidneys have become affected. Several years ago when I felt that my kidneys needed attention, I got Doan's Kidney Pills from F. P. Stone's Drug Store. They strengthened my kidneys, ridding my system of the excess uric acid and in a short time I felt much better."

"Eight years later, Mr. Needham said: 'I still gladly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. My confidence in them is as strong as ever. I occasionally use Doan's when I feel in need of them and always get fine results.'"

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Needham had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

ALBANY

Burnham-Bean

Nina Bean, who has been teaching school in Andover, Mass., for the last three or four years, arrived home Friday, June 25th, and was united in marriage to David E. Burnham of Essex, Mass., by Rev. L. A. Bean of Lewiston. The wedding took place at the bride's father's, A. S. Bean's, Wednesday, June 30, at high noon. After the ceremony, a delicious lunch was served—sandwiches, wedding cake, ice cream, coffee and lemonade. The house was beautifully decorated with ferns, roses and wild flowers. Soon after the lunch, the happy couple started for Essex, Mass., to make a short stay.

Alta Cummings, who has been teaching school at Albany town house for the last twelve weeks, closed her school Saturday. She had all of the scholars that belonged in the Westcott District, Marshall, Hunt's Corner, and Town House District, making four districts. Fifty years ago there were forty scholars in Hunt's Corner District more than there were this year in four districts.

Edith Cummings, who graduated at Gould's Academy a few weeks ago, has gone to work in a Hotel at South Portland. Herman Cummings and Guy Johnson were at George Cummings', recently, on a last visit to the town of Mason to Mr. Young's service. It is reported that the stock went very low. A large herd of cows was sold from $12.00 to $45.00 each. Hides have dropped down to 14c per pound and wool from 20 to 30c per lb.

There was a good attendance at the Ladies' Circle Thursday, July 1st. The Circle voted that all persons not bringing food should pay 20 cents. Those who brought food should pay 10 cents, children under 12 years should pay 5 cents.

The Circle also voted to make a present of $7.00 to David Burnham, who presented here several Sundays before Rev. Mr. Osbourne arrived.

Help continues to be very scarce. Haying will be late this summer.

Mrs. John Jones was thrown out of her carriage Friday and hurt badly.

Amos L. Bean of Haverhill, Mass., called Sunday at his father's, A. G. Bean's, who is quite feeble. Alfred Spears of Oxford came with him.

ICE AND HEALTH

Don't put chopped ice or pieces of ice into water or other drinks in hot weather. According to the Maine Department of Health, very cold drinks are not only unhealthful but dangerous. Water, tea, and other drinks can best be cooled in bottles placed in the refrigerator. If made with hot water as in the case of tea allow them to cool to room temperature before putting in the refrigerator. The use of chopped ice is unhealthful and unnecessary, and wasteful as well. It is wasteful because of the amount of ice so used and because of the unnecessary melting of ice in the refrigerator resulting from keeping the door open while the ice is being chopped.

Summer Furnishings For Men

Imagine Baking Day in a COOL Kitchen

Cakes that are light and fluffy—crisp brown cookies—pies done to an even brown—can be baked without standing over a hot stove or stooping down to open an oven door. The New Perfection Oil Cook Stove gives you all the cooking comfort and convenience of a gas stove. Instantaneous heat directly applied against the cooking utensil by means of a long, blue chimney—heat that can be controlled for any kind of cooking by a turn of the handle.

The oven on this stove is scientifically constructed to circulate fresh, hot air over and under the baking food in the oven. This current of air assures an intense, even baking heat and at the same time drives out the steam and prevents sogginess.

3,000,000 users get three square meals daily with little effort on the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove. Obtainable in one to four burner sizes.

THEY STILL WORK WELL

The so-called progressive tendencies of the age incline individuals and groups of individuals to the practice or promulgation of "new and better" national and international policies. But while times and conditions undoubtedly change and with them the statesman's perspective still the policies of Washington and Lincoln very largely continue to be serviceable.

Probably a majority of the American people fail to discover a powerful appeal in the invitation to become world leaders in any other than the business sense. We desire to do that. We are ready to do that. We are going forward in the extension of such activities. International trade beckons to the live world in America. Washington blazed the way along these imperial paths; Lincoln made them secure and expanded our opportunities. Their wisdom still guides us. They suggest no hazardous experiments. Their cool counsel echoes through the corridors of the years. We have not found them wanting. Why should we now be tempted by vagaries whose effectiveness must at least be questionable?

The world's business is the life of the world. Human beings must work, and receive in their work or moral and social decay is inevitable. American activities in foreign business affairs are characterized by intelligence and sane confidence so far. Let us keep our feet on the ground, our heads free from the mists which circle the mountain tops even when they gleam with gold, purple and amethystine hues.

Lincoln's purposes in the larger view were irrevocable. With him it was the Union, one and indivisible. He steadfastly urged the continuance of struggle until distinctive victory assured the triumph of those principles upon which a one just government can be founded and rest securely. He pointed the way to a national destiny of surpassing greatness. His guide posts, with those of the great first President, still stand, stable, reliable, enduring.

BUCKFIELD
Visited Her Father's Pupil From Japan Thirty-eight years ago Luther W. Mason of Buckfield, was a teacher of music in one of the great schools of Tokio, Japan. He had formerly taught music in the Boston school and also in Oxford county and is still remembered by all of the older generation in this section.

So widely did he become known as a musical instructor that he was called to Tokio by the Japanese authorities and there he remained as a teacher for some three years. While there he had in his class a bright young Japanese lady who was very apt in music. That student is now the wife of a prominent Tokio merchant and her name is Karne Watase. She is prominently connected with the great temperance movement of Japan and has just returned from London where she has been in attendance at the international convention of the W. C. T. U. She has been in Portland as the guest of the W. C. T. U. of that city and personal friends.

It was to visit this former pupil of her father that Mrs. H. A. Irish went to Portland. Mrs. Eleanor Phinney of Auburn who accompanied her was anxious to meet a lady who was a former pupil of her uncle in far off Japan.

They found Mrs. Watase a woman of remarkable intelligence and culture and with a perfect command of the English language. The meeting of the three ladies was mutually delightful and several hours were passed in conversation. She had met Mrs. Althea Quimby in London and came back to America on the same steamer with State president of the order. Mrs. Watase was entertained by Mrs. Gertrude Leavitt, daughter of the late Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens.

Mrs. Watase told Mrs. Phinney that she had long been anxious to visit Maine where prohibition first took root. It was the home of Neal Dow, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Quimby whose names she dearly cherished. She will probably visit the graves of the dead pioneers and leave flowers as a tribute to their memory.

Mrs. Watase told her visitors that she had nine children of her own and the same number of grandchildren. She is a remarkably distinguished and young looking woman.

When Prof. Mason came back to America about 37 years ago he was accompanied by several young Japanese students who were to be educated at Harvard and other of our famous schools. Mrs. Irish and Mrs. Phinney learned that they had made good in their native land. She visited a few other points and then crossed the continent and sailed from San Francisco for Japan, July 8th. She presented a fine photograph of herself to Mrs. Irish as the daughter of her old time music teacher.

She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McKenzie and family, went west to live 19 years ago and this is her first trip back and time has brought many changes. After visiting here a few weeks, the party intend going to California for a visit before going home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Newcomb of Norway, but formerly of this place, has been presented with a new Dodge car, we understand it is a gift from his father. Children's Day was observed Sunday, June 27, at the church with an interesting program.

GRADUATION DAY

The old schoolhouse looks lonesome, I passed that way today, Where hundreds gather every year To learn from day to day. All we wrapped in silence, How lonely it did seem. There were no children singing, Nor romping on the green. The play-grounds were deserted, And growing fast the sod, And paths were feeding many ways, Where many feet have trod. From my heart there comes a longing, As I sit here with my pen, Thought my life was in its morning, And I was playing there with them. People in the streets were pacing, Hurrying, scurrying, hither and gay, And the atmosphere seemed saying, "This is graduation day." I can see each tiny token, And a joyous happy band, Where friendship's golden ties are broken, As they clasp each other's hand. We shall gather there this evening, And with tears our eyes will swell, While the future dreams their dreaming—Those dear ones we love so well. I can hear the music playing, I can hear the prayer that's said, I can see them all a-marching, With a soft and steady tread. I can see them as they stand there, With their school days left behind, I can see the patient teachers, With their faces good and kind. They will start anew, tomorrow, On their journey just begun, Life will have its joy and sorrow, As the years go one by one. Onward, onward, time is fleeting, And my hair is tinged with gray, But I send them all a greeting, On this graduation day. FREDERICK MARSHALL DAVIS. Copyright 1920.

WATERFORD

Greenleaf-Millett
A very pretty home wedding took place Tuesday afternoon, June 29th, 1920, at one o'clock when George L. Greenleaf son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Greenleaf of Norway, and Edith G. Millett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Millett, were married at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert E. Jones in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom. An informal reception followed when cake and ice cream were served. The bride was becomingly gowned in a white dress of French Voile, and wore a spray of rose lace. The groom's suit was brown. The rooms were tastefully decorated with ferns, roses and syringa. Many beautiful gifts were received. After the reception the happy couple left for a short trip in their car which had been prettily decorated for the occasion amid a shower of confetti and the best wishes of their many friends. After their return they will live for the present with the bride's parents.

Home Investing is Safest

If you were going to form a partnership, would you prefer to form it with a man you know, or a total stranger?

If you were going into a business, would you rather embark in one you knew about or in one far away that you had never seen and knew nothing about?

The answers to these two questions tell you why so many Maine people prefer to invest in Central Maine Power Company Preferred, rather than in some out-of-state investment.

When they buy stock they become part owners in the Company.

Naturally they select a company owned to an overwhelming extent by people who live in their territory, many cases by friends and acquaintances. Our Company is managed and operated by Maine people.

Then too the Company and its dams, power stations, lines and buildings are located right here in Central Maine.

Most Maine people have seen its power developments, its transmission lines, its buildings. When Maine people buy into Central Maine Power Company they are buying into something they know about.

Home ownership is best, for customers and for stockholders.

PRESERVING EGGS FOR WINTER

Fresh eggs properly preserved can be used satisfactorily for all purposes in cooking and for the table, and may be kept for 12 months in excellent condition and used with the best of results. If satisfactory results are to be attained, the eggs must be clean and fresh, and if possible, infertile. Eggs that float when placed in a solution are not fresh, and, therefore, can not be preserved. If eggs are only slightly soiled, a cloth nearly dampened with vinegar can be used to remove the stains, but never attempt to preserve eggs that are badly soiled, for washing removes the protective coating.

One good method for the preservation of eggs is the use of sodium silicate, or, as it is commonly called, waterglass. If the price of sodium silicate is about 30¢ a quart, eggs may be preserved at a cost of approximately 2¢ a dozen. It is not desirable to use waterglass a second time. Use one quart of sodium silicate to nine quarts of water that has been boiled and cooled. Place this mixture in a clean five-gallon jar. This will be sufficient to preserve 15 dozen eggs, and will serve as a guide for the quantity needed to preserve larger amounts of eggs.

Clean five-gallon jar thoroughly, after which it should be scalded and allowed to dry. Then heat a quantity of water to the boiling point and add the eggs. Next measure out nine quarts of the water, add one quart of sodium silicate and stir mixture thoroughly. Lastly, place the waterglass mixture and eggs in the jar and store in a cool, dry place. Cover well to prevent evaporation. When waterglass cannot be obtained, the following method is good and effective—old-time people used it altogether, and only once in a great while did eggs preserved in this way taste slightly of lime.

Dissolve two pounds of unslaked lime in five gallons of water that has been previously boiled and allowed to cool and allow the mixture to stand until the lime settles and the liquid is clear. Place clean, fresh eggs in a clean earthen crock or keg and pour the clear lime water into the vessel until the eggs are covered.

At least three inches of the solution should cover the top layer of eggs. Sometimes a pound of salt was used with the lime, but experience has shown that the eggs keep better without the salt.

KEEPING A FAMILY BUDGET

Even in households that are run along the simplest lines, a budget should be kept. There should be a regular sum of money—no matter how small each week—that is to be applied to housekeeping expenses. No business could possibly succeed unless an accurate record was kept of its affairs, and though the matters concerning a home are usually simple it is an indication of poor management to rely on memory alone to record them.

A budget is a carefully prepared plan for dividing what money one has to spend for household necessities into stated sums for rent, clothing, food, personal expenses, education, recreation, gifts and savings. Each one must work out his own budget on the basis of what he has to spend and it should be written down so it can be easily referred to.

Personal expenses include education, pleasure and gifts, and must be regulated in relation to the matters of necessity already considered. Savings include emergency and permanent savings and are a very necessary consideration in the arrangement of a budget.

In these days of the high cost of living there is absolutely no way to avoid being swamped in the matter of expenditures, if some plan is not followed regularly week after week. This plan for spending is what a business man calls a budget. Wise housekeepers all over the United States have adopted this idea in running their homes. Without a budget a home is like a ship drifting around in the open sea without a rudder—Christian Herald.

HOW TO LIVE

The most important features of ventilation are motion, coolness, and the proper degree of humidity and freshness. There is an unreasonable prejudice against air in motion. A gentle draft, as a matter of fact, is one of the best friends a seeker after health can have. Such a gentle draft as ordinarily occurs in proper ventilation is both healthful and wholesome.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Carroll-Scotchman
Albert H. Carroll and Myrtle M. Scotchman were united in marriage on the afternoon of June 30, by Rev. M. O. Baltzer. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. Fannie Frost on Paris street, Norway, in the presence of the immediate families. The double ring service was used. Tasteful decorations in the rooms were arranged with wild flowers and ferns.

The bride wore a traveling suit of navy blue serge with hat in harmony. Immediately after the ceremony and congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left by automobile on a short wedding trip. Confetti and wedding emblems played an important part in their going away.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Florence Gurney of Hebron and has made her home with her grandmother, Mrs. Fannie Frost. She attended Norway High School and Hebron, and has been employed at the Carroll, Jellison Shoe Co. the past few years.

Mr. Carroll is the son of John and Mabel Carroll of Fryeburg, formerly of Norway, and has employment at the Paris Manufacturing Co. They will reside in Norway.

Of Interest To All
Crowded with thrills, fun and merriment, comedy scenes connecting a very well written and plausible story, "Peck's Bad Boy," a musical farce of real class and distinctive merit, comes to the Opera House one night only, Saturday, July 10.

The offering is not to be likened to anything in the musical line here before the public. For its author of book, Bon Dudley, gets all the credit and for its tuneful score Wm. B. Friedlander may be thanked. The farce is high class. It does not rely upon the coarse methods sometimes employed for success. Success sometimes gained is not for the patron, educated in music and whose mind and taste craves for the better class of entertainment. "Peck's Bad Boy" is far removed from the cheap brand of entertainment. The portion of good music and singing to be heard will rival some of the most pretentious comic operas. In conjunction with the regular stage performance, there will be fourteen singing, dancing, and vaudeville features including a troupe of trained educated dogs, Mike, Tip and Billy, in talking, dancing and acrobatic specialties; and the world famous ventriloquist, Mr. Nat Wharton.

DO HOME CANNING
Home coming—of utmost importance during the war—will be just as important this year, according to present indications. The shortage of labor on the farms makes it necessary for the canneries to pay high prices for the commodities that will be canned later in the season. Labor in canning factories is expensive and difficult to obtain. Every thing, from cans to cartage cost, has increased in price, and transportation is slow and more expensive than it was in war times. All this increase must be paid by the ultimate consumer; and there is not even assurance that there will be enough canned products to go around. The solution is home canning.

That sugar is higher in price than it has been hitherto is advanced by some as a reason for canning either less fruit or nothing but vegetables; but unless one intends to give up sweets altogether, there seems to be no good reason for not using canned fruit on account of high priced sugar. There are few desserts that do not take from one-half to one cup of sugar, and no dessert is more healthful than fruit. It is not necessary to use such thick syrup as was used in the days of plenty. A ten per cent. syrup made of one part sugar and nine parts water will make a palatable syrup of all kinds. Such fruits as apples, pineapples, and the like can be canned without sugar. In fact, ordinary glucose or corn syrup may be substituted for sugar in making the syrup. A palatable syrup is made by mixing one-half cup sugar, one cup glucose and eight cups water.

One cup of sugar will make ten cups of syrup. A pound of sugar will make twenty cups of syrup. This last amount will be sufficient for twenty pints of syrup. When the ten per cent. syrup is used the cost of the sugar to can a pint jar is one and one-half cents with sugar at thirty cents a pound. It is not so expensive after all.

A Merry Medley Of Mistakes

Mistakes are the misplays or misdeals that by falsity or through fault or from fear are made by mortals when playing the great game of life, and our misplaying and misdealing may be merry or mournful according to results reaped. It has been said that when mortals make mistakes the immortals mourn, while demon cohorts chuckle to see life's cards "decked" and the glorious game blocked or balled—the arch-demon himself gruesomely grinning in ghoulish glee, whenever by feeble and futile means men try to make their mistakes masquerade as methods and matters meritorious. Mistakes at best are but miserable messes, yet many might be more readily condoned if they were openly confessed as such. Listen! while we list some few of the many messes and their methods of masking.

When the mechanic makes a mistake it's the fault of the machine.

When the carpenter makes a mistake it's dull tools or dead wood.

When the plumber makes a mistake it's somewhere hid in the bill.

When the metre reader makes a mistake it's indisputable truth.

When the professor makes a mistake he calls the student a dunce.

When the student makes a mistake he thinks the professor a dolt.

When the judge makes a mistake it becomes a deeply profound law.

When the lawyer makes a mistake, it is new money for an old case.

When the juror makes a mistake it's "hings" for the "mistaken."

When the scientist makes a mistake it's a scientific discovery.

When the layman makes a mistake it's a lie printed in the book.

When the doctor makes a mistake it's a wrong diagnosis.

When the surgeon makes a mistake the patient dies from "shock."

When the patient makes a mistake it's cemetery or court for him.

When the undertaker makes a mistake the corpse doesn't care.

When the preacher makes a mistake nobody knows the difference.

When the fanatic makes a mistake Beelzebub has a hearty laugh.

When the skeptic makes a mistake it's a lie printed in the book.

When the man makes a marriage mistake he's pitted as a "tool."

When the woman makes a like mistake she's jeered at as a fool.

When the vocalist makes a mistake he hails the pianist as dub.

When the pianist makes a mistake he says the singer's a scrub.

When the brass-blower makes a mistake it gets by as great jazz.

When the clarinetist makes a mistake the fiddler was all wrong.

When the fiddler makes a mistake it's acoustics, heat or hall.

When the drummer makes a mistake he passes the leader a "look."

When the leader makes a mistake it's the drummer gets a "call."

When the magazine makes a mistake (1) it's a misprint of course.

When the publisher makes a mistake it's office boy or "steno."

The above is a Medley. This has nothing to do with Melody, which can be found in all forms at HOWE'S MUSIC AND BOOK STORE 134 Main St., NORWAY. No mistake in trading there. "Everything to make Harmony."

IT CERTAINLY DID THE WORK HE SAYS

Tanlac Overcame Trouble—He Had Been Trying For Years To Get Rid Of

"Tanlac has done the work for me and I don't mind saying so; in fact it does me good to tell people what a fine medicine I have found it to be," said Charles B. Place, 12 School St., Portland, Maine, while telling friends recently of his remarkable improvement. Mr. Place is a carpenter by trade, has lived in Portland practically all his life and is the oldest member of the local No. 774 United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

"For years and years I had suffered from chronic indigestion, and it seemed that no matter how careful I was about what I ate I had to pay for it in suffering afterwards. It was out of the question for me to enjoy a meal for my stomach was sour all the time and I was never free from gas. I suffered terribly from heart palpitation, and my breath would get so short I had to fight for air. If I ate any supper I was never able to sleep at night and sometimes I was so sick I even lay down and would have to sit up to get my breath. I was so constipated I had to be taking laxatives all the time. I tried everything anybody told me, but nothing did me any good and it was beginning to look like I would have to bear my troubles the rest of my days.

"But at last I have found a medicine that will do the work and that's Tanlac. I started taking it only about a month ago, but already it has completely relieved me of the troubles that I've been trying for years to get rid of. My appetite was never better and I am entirely free from gas, heart palpitation and shortness of breath. In fact, I can eat anything set before me and digest it as if I had never suffered from stomach in my life. I am not constipated any more and I sleep like a top every night. I am hale and hearty and feel brimful of new life and energy. All the members of my local have noticed the change Tanlac has made in me and they are all the time saying something about how strong and healthy I am looking."

Tanlac is sold in Norway by A. L. Clark Drug Co., in West Paris by S. T. White, and by O. H. Haskell, Sweden, R. F. D. from Harrison.

IVY POISONING

Now that summer has come again, many people will become victims, once more of ivy poisoning, for the ivy grows at the shore and in the country, and in fact everywhere that people go for vacation season. Poison ivy, as known to many, grows as a trailing vine or in low shrubs and is recognizable by its three leaves. When once known it is easily distinguishable by the most careful observer. Ivy poisoning causes irritation of the skin and may be transferred from one person to another by contact, clothing or handling the same utensils, dishes or linens as a person having the eruption. Burning and itching are the first symptoms followed by inflammation and eruption on the skin. There is a strong desire to scratch which gives but slight relief and rather tends to produce greater irritation. If one suspects he has been subjected to the ivy poisoning, a prompt and thorough washing of the hands with hot soap and water may prevent irritation. There are many homely and unofficial remedies which are often effectively used and sometimes ordinary household ammonia will both prevent and cure the poisoning. This should first be diluted with an equal portion of water. A solution of bicarbonate of soda or a saturated solution of table salt will give temporary relief from the itching and burning. These remedies may be efficacious but the advice of a physician in cases of ivy poisoning is recommended.

KILL THE RAT, THE SPREADER OF PLAGUE

Calling attention to the discovery of bubonic plague in several American and Mexican gulf ports, and renewing his warning regarding the introduction of plague from Mediterranean ports which are known to be infected, Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming urges communities throughout the country, and especially along the coast, to inaugurate rat extermination and rat-proofing campaigns.

Bubonic plague is primarily a disease of rodents, especially rats, and the disease can be controlled effectively by measures directed against the rat. The extermination of rats is all the more to be desired because of the tremendous economic damage they cause.

According to conservative estimates made by the U. S. Public Health service on the basis of numerous surveys, there is at least one rat for every person in the United States. This estimate coincides with that for Great Britain and Ireland and with authoritative figures for Denmark, France and Germany. The annual up-keep per rodent was computed by the same authorities as $1.80 in Great Britain, $1.20 in Denmark, and $1.00 in France.

The depredations of the rats in the United States will very probably exceed the estimate for Great Britain. One half a cent a day is considered conservative but even on this computation, it costs the United States $180,000,000 a year to support its rat population. This does not include mice.

CUTWORMS

Cutworms used to cut off my young garden plants, but of recent years I have used a method which prevents this injury. When transplanting cabbage and tomatoes, I wrap a small piece of paper, 3 1/2 by 4 inches, around the stem. When the plant is set out, one-half of this collar of paper extends beneath and one-half above the ground. This prevents the cutworm from getting to the stem and is excellent insurance against these insects. I have never lost a plant wrapped with paper, and consider this method of protection practical for the average farm and backyard garden.

In large truck patches and in the corn fields, I have killed these worms quickly by means of poison bran mash scattered very thinly along the rows of corn or molasses, 1 pint; 2 oranges or lemons as follows: Bran 1 peck; Paris green or white arsenic, 1-4 pound; cheap syrup or molasses, 1 pint; 1 orange or lemon (ground or chopped fine); water, 3-4 gallon. Mix the dry bran and poison thoroughly, sprinkle over it the sweetened liquid made by stirring the syrup and ground fruits in the water. The bran should be stirred while the liquid is being added, and then mixed with a trowel or hoe for a few minutes. This bait is scattered very thinly in the evening and is an effective poison with which to kill the worms. They feed at night, and by the next afternoon their dead bodies can be found on and beneath the surface of the ground. I use this method in my garden whenever the worms are cutting off plants grown from seeds and which have not been protected by the paper collars. I try to scatter the mixture too thinly for chickens to pick up, but am careful not to let the chickens feed where this poison has been spread.

CLEANING THE TEETH

When the teacher talks to the child about the desirability of cleaning the teeth, she should follow her pupils up to see that they actually practice what she preaches.

"THE GOOSE THAT LAYS THE GOLDEN EGGS."

Few lecturers lecture like Alexander Cairns. Indeed, few can, for this mirthful orator mixes his sermons with smiles, his wisdom with wit and lectures with laughter, making everybody happy and at the same time driving home good, helpful thoughts.

When Dr. Cairns appears on the opening day at your Community Chautauqua—things will happen! If you are unable to smile stay away, for this big, genial Irishman refuses to be serious unless he can make you smile at the same time. His true-to-life sermon, "The Goose That Lays the Golden Eggs," is a happy chapter from the book of life and is guaranteed to make your heart bigger, your smile broader and your thoughts better. Don't miss Alexander Cairns.

GREAT ORATOR HERE THIRD DAY

Dr. E. E. Violette is without doubt one of the ablest lecturers on the Chautauqua platform today. He is a rare combination of real eloquence and common sense intelligence, and he is one of those unusual persons who go about the world with eyes for interesting people, places and things. His Chautauqua subject is an adaptation from his famous lecture "The Sunset Trail." It will be oratory plus—plus personality, humor and worth-while information. Dr. Violette speaks here on the third day of our Community Chautauqua, and it is hardly necessary to say that he will inject into his discourse many of those personal touches from his own varied life and travels.

ALL THE WAY FROM ENGLAND HE COMES!

John Tobin comes from the same country as did the Prince of Wales, only Mr. Tobin is just a bit more intimate with us. He isn't a prince; he's a King—a King of lecture-entertainers, and if, after you've heard him, you fail to vote him the "best yet," then you and good music are strangers.

John Tobin can play the piano—he can talk interestingly, and he knows more about music than most of us ever dreamed of. So he has mixed the combination together, and he is going to serve the concoction to you—a lecture-concert, with piano illustrations. We know you will enjoy this pleasant young man and his melody message, entitled "Anglo-American Music."

This is OUR IDEA

A certain city store prints a statement something like this—Beware of the downward prices. It is a known fact that many stores on account of the cold late season are overstocked with Spring Suits and Top-coats, we all know that the longer they keep them, the more out of style they will be, in other words, this Spring's Suit will be "ANTIQUÉ" next spring.

Now speaking for ourselves we can say that about all of our Kuppenheimer Suits as well as other makes are YEAR 'ROUND models; a suit that you buy here will be an all round suit—in style this year, next year, and the year after. No reduction in price, no reduction in style, no reduction in quality, or no reduction in value. Our motto is one price to all and money back if not satisfied.
